

The Architecture of the Forming System in Public Administration

Cristina MANOLE, Lecturer, Ph. D
Department of Management and Public Administration
Faculty of Management
Bucharest Academy of Economic Studies

Abstract: In the context of the Romanian public administration reform, the continuous formation of human resources, from this economic sector, becomes a solid fundament, even constituting a determining process of its acceleration.

In order to implement all continuous forming programs and realizing the public administration reform objectives there is needed the establishment of priority problems, and also the time horizon they must be approached in.

All these aspects are mentioned, detailed in the following article.