

To Objectify the Subjectivity in the Project Managers Selection

Marian STOIAN Professor Ph.D
Administration and Public Management Department
Management Faculty
Bucharest Academy of Economic Studies

Abstract: The article integrate the results of an analysis developed by the author concerning the selection of the candidate for project manager position in public institutions, taking into account the new opportunities for Romania during the next period and the needs to increase the absorption grade pf structural and cohesion funds through the preparation and the implementation of en effective and feasible projects.

Key words: project manager, structural funds, cohesion funds.